Ousted Planning Board member plans to make his case Monday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Motel owner Francis Dumont apparently plans to protest the vote by the Bethel selectmen not to reappoint him to the town Planning Board.

Dumont declined Monday to discuss the details of his quarrel with the vote, but he said he would be on the agenda for the Oct. 16 selectmen's meeting.

"It will be very interesting," he said. "You'd be surprised at what really went on."

Planning Board appointments were made by the town selectmen at a meeting late last month. The vote included both new appointments (to fill vacancies) and the reappointments of incumbents whose terms were expiring.

The selectmen are not legally required to reappoint members of appointed boards who wish to continue serving, but in practice such requests are rarely turned down.

The Dumont, whose three-year term was among those which expires this year, was not reappointed, ostensibly because he failed to submit by June 30 a form indicating his desire to continue

'You'd be surprised at what really went on.'

FRANCIS DUMONT

Frank Vogt argued emphatically that Dumont knew of the deadline and should be held to it.

"There most assuredly was a memo (regarding the requirement), comments at board meetings, subsequent mention in the minutes. There are no extenuating circumstances that I know of. He knew," Vogt said.

Vogt and Dumont had been at odds during the past year over two major issues faced by the board: the waiver for an oversized sign at Dumont's motel (the sign was later destroyed by the wind); and the town's sign ordinance revisions, which Dumont publicly opposed.

The selectmen's vote on last month's appointments was unanimous. Incumbents Vogt, Jack Cross, and Stan Howe were reappointed. New members Don Bennett and Jan Baker were also appointed.

Two new members were added because the board also needed to fill the vacancy left by the departure of incumbent Reggie Gilbert, who indicated he did not wish to continue on the board.

Planning Board terms usually expire June 30, but this year all terms were extended until Sept. 30. The deadline for applying for reappointment was not extended.

In late August Dumont did fill out the required form.

Dumont was not at the selectmen's meeting at which the reappointments were made, and there was some question at that meeting as to whether he had been aware of the need to fill out the form by June 30.

Voters to decide Nov. 7 if SAD44 budgets will face referendum votes

By ALISON ALOISIO

Voters here and across the state are demanding more say in the school budget.

School officials, for their part, say they want a fair price for the services they provide.

For the two groups, the common goal is a fair, equitable result.

That's what SAD44 residents will be debating as Election Day approaches. They will decide then whether to change from the current district budget meeting format to a referendum-style vote on school budgets.

SAD44 includes Bethel, Fryeburg, and Sebago. The referendum will be held on Nov. 7.

'Every town that votes for the referendum should also vote to do away with their Town Meeting.'

MARGARET HANE
SAD44 director

The question was placed on the ballot in 1992, but it failed to pass. That effort was criticized by some as being too narrow. Many believe that the referendum will be successful this time.

Bethel and Fryeburg have been vocal in their support for the referendum. They would participate in a referendum vote. She said they prefer to cast their ballots in a private voting booth in their own town, at their own convenience.

"People feel more comfortable voting in their own town. At the district budget meeting, they're in there with five other towns. They feel uncomfortable," she said.

Still, some directors worried.

For SAD44 Supt. Ron Jenkins, and some school board members, the meaning of a "no" vote by referendum won't be clear. They're also concerned that multiple rejections of the budget will create months-long uncertainty for schools and towns.

In a statement he read at a recent board meeting, Jenkins told direc-

How referendums play in Gray

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD15 (Gray-New Gloucester) has had its share of referendum-style school budget votes -- six in the past two years.

How is it working? It depends on who you ask.

Evan Monroe, a resident of Gray, is a strong proponent of the referendum.

"The process works fine. Some people just don't like the results," she said.

District meeting adds $100,000

Last year saw five votes before a budget was finally adopted in October.

This year, 2,000 voters turned out for a referendum in August. They defeated the proposed budget by about 200 votes. The School Board

What survey respondents like -- and don't -- about Bethel

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Well over 300 people have filled out the surveys compiled by the Bethel Comprehensive Plan Committee, and respondents have taken the opportunity to list a number of things to like and dislike about the town.

But the views of two groups of residents are notably absent from this vision of Bethel today and Bethel as it might become. So far there have been no responses from anyone in the 18-to-24-year-old age group. And returns are very light in the 25-to-34-year-old group.

Since people in these age groups are among those who will be most affected by the town's planning effort, the committee has extended the survey deadline and is asking everyone who cares about the future of Bethel -- and especially those between 18 and 34 -- to take the time to fill out a survey.

Survey forms are available at the Town Office, and can be dropped off either there or at Preb's.

The survey focuses on a number of issues facing the town -- issues that will affect what kind of town Bethel becomes in the future.

But the survey also asks respondents what they like and don't like about Bethel as it is today.

Here is what those who have responded so far have to say.

Like most: Friendly people; small town atmosphere; rural atmosphere; it's home; my home town; picturesque, quaint and quiet; hiking and skiing; has kept out fast-food chains and strip malls; quiet, friendly, close to mountains; New England community; appreciation of history and traditional values; NTL and Sunday River; good cultural opportunities; Gould; friendly and fairly safe; natural beauty; excellent personal services by local businesses; local people I grew up with; walking to stores; country atmosphere; clean, quiet, ponds, hunting; elder population; good churches, bridge group, library; no heavy traffic; beauty, peaceful, variety of interest; community spirit; beautiful valley; opportunities to raise a family; no traffic lights; diversity, like living in community where business, farms, forestry and residences intermixed.

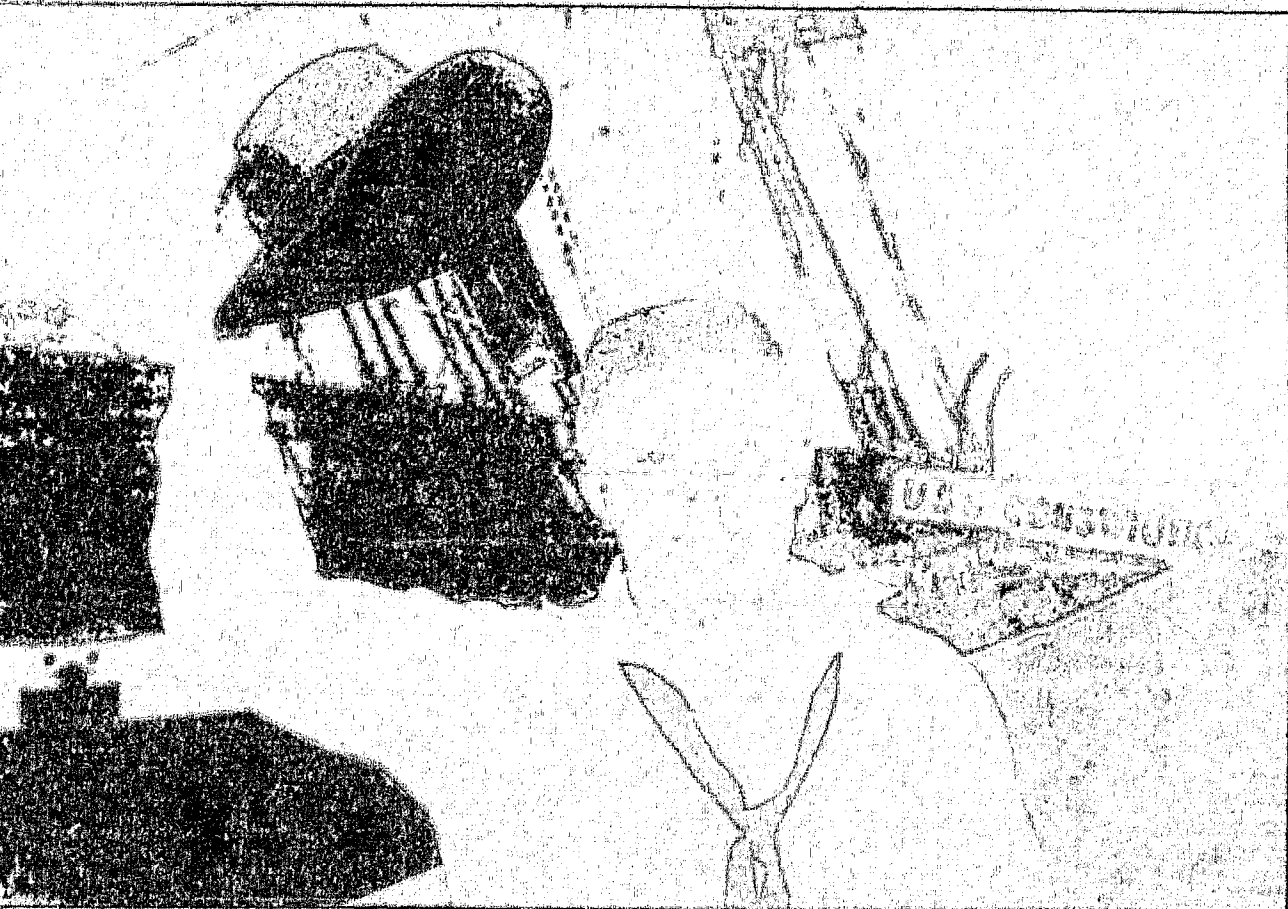

Like least: long, cold winters; out-of-state people moving in and influencing citizens; town management regulations on residential issues; police protection; high cost of public utilities and school budget.

FIREMAN APPRENTICE MILES ROBERTS greets visitors at the U.S.S. Constitution in Boston.

Welcome aboard 'Old Ironsides'

By LISA M. NOVAK

AND ALISON ALOISIO

Sailor Miles Roberts was headed for an assignment aboard a guided missile cruiser in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, when he took a detour on to a piece of history.

Roberts, the son of Elaine Roberts of Milton Plantation, had just completed his apprentice training course after enlisting in the Navy in May of 1994. After receiving the cruiser assignment, he was told he could put in a request to be assigned to the U.S.S. Constitution in Boston Harbor.

"I put in for it, and my name was drawn from a pool," Roberts said last week. He's been on the 200-year-old ship since August of 1994.

In this age of stealth weaponry, ballistic missile submarines and nuclear-powered aircraft carriers, it could be difficult to find a place in the modern Navy for a ship built nearly 200 years ago. But Roberts says the Constitution holds a special

STREET LEGAL IN BETHEL—Gould Academy cross-country skiers Margaret Shaner '97 and Lindsay Molynaux '98 (shown here near the top of Albany Hill in Albany) can now use the streets of Bethel for their rollerski training, as can other rollerskiers -- but some restrictions still apply. The Bethel Board of Selectmen voted recently to grant a six-month waiver to the town ordinance which bans rollerskiing in the town compact. The board will review the policy at the end of the waiver period. The waiver applies only to rollerskiing on equipment with resistance devices and brakes -- rollerskating and skateboarding are still prohibited. In addition, groups must be adult-supervised and must let the Town Office know ahead of time of their plans. (Photo by Scott Jerome)

SUPPORT THE UNITED WAY

To the Editor:

During this time of year, local United Way organizations in Maine and across the country conduct their annual fund-raising campaigns to benefit local, state and national human service agencies. The United Way of Oxford County began its annual campaign in September with a fund-raising goal for 1995 of $75,000. This is the local United Way's seventh annual campaign and each year the donations have grown over the previous year.

For over 60 years the United Way has relied heavily on the support it receives from business leaders. For businesses, the United Way has been a means of supporting various charitable services through a single, annual fund-raising campaign. Instead of the donor having to pick and choose between a number of competing requests for donations, a jury/committee system of impartial volunteers from within the local United Way's community decides how the available funds can be best employed.

Businesses in Bethel, Locke Mills, Woodstock, Newry and Andover will receive a letter asking for their support of this year's campaign. I simply ask that they consider this request seriously in light of their business's financial health and the need to help remedy some of the unhealthy human conditions that exist locally. The brochure included with the United Way letter explains where donations are used in Oxford County.

For those individuals who would like more information about the United Way in Oxford County, brochures are available from the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce office at Bethel Station.

WATCH FOR THOSE WHITE CANES

To the Editor:

Maine does have a white cane law. It requires drivers to yield to persons carrying a white cane or using a dog guide. The law also states that only persons who are legally blind are allowed to carry a white cane.

The purpose of White Cane Awareness Month is to promote better understanding and mutual responsibility for the safety of individuals who are blind and visually impaired. Motorists need to yield the right of way as people using a white cane. People who are blind need to develop skills using the cane to travel safely.

The cane is a tool for and a symbol of freedom for people who are blind and visually impaired. The cane enables such things as independence, self-reliance, mobility and identification to the public of a person's severe visual impairment.

The long white cane is the most commonly used tool for travel of blind or visually impaired persons. The cane is individually prescribed based on the user's height, length of stride, pace (speed of travel) and comfort. Long canes and the training to use them can be obtained from orientation and mobility specialists from the Department of Education Division for the Blind and Visually Impaired.

Contact the Division for the Blind and Visually Impaired in Augusta at 202-624-5323 or your local office for further information.

NEW TRAIL SIGNS ON MT. WILL—Hikers on the North Ledges section of the Mt. Will trail will now be greeted by 22 nature trail signs describing various forest and other natural features. The signs were a project of the Bethel Conservation Commission. Although many of the signs relate to timber harvesting and forest regeneration, the descriptions also include wildlife, geological, and historic features. Members of the White Mountain Americorps program helped put up the signs. Pictured here are: front, from left, Renee Stoops, Dale Danylin; back, Allison Chase, Tom Wheeler of the conservation commission, and Vicki Lassonde. The Mt. Bethel Town Office

The topic of this week's column is Household Hazardous Waste. These harmful wastes are found in every home. The question of what to do with hazardous waste is a question that the town office is often asked. Bethel, in cooperation with the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments (AVCOG) is coordinating a drop-off. This is an opportunity for the citizens of Bethel to dispose of such waste in the safest and most responsible way.

AVCOG is sponsoring the Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day. It will be held at the public works yard in Lewiston on Saturday, Oct. 28. This is being done as part of the Maine Waste Management Agency's pilot project on household hazardous waste and will be available to Bethel residents.

A project such as this is rather costly. It is almost impossible for a town the size of Bethel to offer such a program. There is a minimum setup fee of $1,000 which includes educational materials, personnel, materials and the transportation of materials. Add to this overhead, the tipping fees for each category of household hazards. For these reasons, a small collection based on both the number of participants, and amount generated would prove to be an extremely costly venture for Bethel.

A substance can be defined as hazardous if it can catch fire, react or explode when mixed with other substances, if it is corrosive, or if it is toxic. The average household contains between three and 10 gallons of such wastes. They are human health hazards and a threat to the environment. The improper disposal of household wastes can cause problems for the entire community. Never, ever combine materials and always leave in original containers.

Every community must develop an effective hazardous waste management program. The program must begin with personal commitment by all. Education is the first step of proper disposal. One of the worst ways to dispose of many hazardous wastes is to "just dump them down the drain." Ground water can be contaminated and wastewater treatment plants are not designed to handle certain types of hazardous wastes. The responsible action to take is to develop an effective system for managing hazardous waste.

A detailed list of hazardous materials to be collected will be published in the near future. Items such as solvents, pesticides, heavy metals, and corrosives will be explained. Residents are encouraged to drop off the most toxic materials. Pre-registration at the town office will be required. Please stay posted for more detailed information.

Hazardous materials should always be left in their original containers and never combined with other materials.

Maine Liquor Sales Going Private

By MIKE BROWN

Governors and politicians have talked about it for decades. State employee labor unions have fought it longer. But come Dec. 1 a special 12-member task force created by legislative resolve in June 1993 will recommend to Gov. King and the legislature that Maine immediately extract itself from the retail liquor business.

The four points of the conceptual plan now being finalized are:

- Close all state retail liquor stores.
  - Establish an agency retail licensee and distribution system that is private sector based.
  - Provide a system that transfers to the state's general fund moneys that will exceed revenue neutrality.
  - Retains, and somewhat expands, the state's liquor enforcement system.
- That's a tall order for a state which has had some form of regulated liquor sales since 1862. But the conceptual plan must run the reality gauntlet of Gov. King (he supports privatization), the Legal Affairs and Veterans' Committee and the full legislature itself.

Maine would essentially retain its "wholesale" operation and control but privatize its warehousing and distribution system. Revenue neutrality would be accomplished by setting the wholesale price to licensees at 57 percent markup over the liquor manufacturer's price landed at the warehouse. (The 1994 liquor sales contribution to the general fund was about $23 million.)

The state would retain its one bailment warehouse system but under private contract operation. Bailment means the liquor is warehoused and remains in ownership by the manufacturer until orders are filled to licensees.

There will be two types of licensees: retail agent with sales to retail customers only; and distributing agent who can retail and also distribute to other agents and on-premises licensees like restaurants.

The annual fee for retail only is $2,000 and the agent must carry 150 codes. Annual fee for distributing agents is $3,000 and they must carry 500 codes.

All retail price controls would be removed and liquor store licensees would be issued without restrictions in number and geographic locations, which according to the task force, "would ensure competition based on price, variety and service."

No longer would there be "agency stores" licensed by the state under a variety of rules. Currently, there are 186 such stores.

Under the plan all 29 state retail liquor stores would be closed including the state's discount store in Kittery. There would be 125 state employee positions abolished including supervisors, store managers and clerks.

The cost of closing the stores is estimated at $1,880,800, primarily for personnel expense ($1.5 million). The plan says, "... state should assist current employees whose jobs would be eliminated by offering training comparable with that available to similarly situated employees." Whatever that means.

With the closing of Maine's only "discount" liquor store at Kittery, what might be structured to mitigate New Hampshire's retail liquor prices (5-35 percent lower) isn't clear. The plan only tersely says, "... a strategy formulated through public/private partnership."

Kittery's discount store, opened in 1973, had net sales in FY'94 of nearly 12 percent of the total net sales of all state liquor stores and contributed $1,246,168 to the general fund in that year.

Liquor enforcement will continue by state officers which currently have about 400 premises to inspect annually for compliance. With liquor privatization and no restrictions on the number of licensees, four additional officers are recommended.

It was the cessation of Prohibition that caused Maine and most states to enact monopolistic legislation to regulate the sale and consumption of alcoholic products.

One of the reasons was to eliminate the private profit motive. What a social difference 62 years -- and the Twenty-first Amendment, of course -- make upon Maine's lifestyle.

A number of unusual items were the topic of discussion at the annual "What's It" night at the Bethel Historical Society's October meeting. Following this portion of the meeting conducted by the president, Charles Raymond, slides of old photos made during the past year were shown by Society Director Stanley R. Howe.

During the business portion of the meeting, the president announced that the next meeting would be a presentation by Shireen Vincent, society secretary, based on the diaries of Maud Pratt Farwell from the 1930s to the 1960s. He reminded those present that the Maine Old Cemetery Association would hold its fall meeting here on Oct. 7. The "Gift of the Month" was a genealogy of the Thurston family of Errol, N.H., the gift of Robert Stoddard of Merrimack, N.H. Persis Post presented two locally produced cookbooks from the early 20th century to the society from which the refreshment cakes for the evening were made.

Despite the rain, members of the Maine Old Cemetery Association ventured out on Saturday to two of Bethel's largest cemeteries for a tour conducted by Society Director Stanley R. Howe.

Variance rejection challenged

GREENWOOD--The state court is being asked to overturn a decision by the town planning and appeals boards denying permission to construct a residence on a 1.1 acre parcel located between the Greenwood Road and Twitchell Pond, Carlton and Lenora Cole had sought a variance from either the shoreland or road setback requirements to allow for the construction of a residence on the narrow parcel. Their application was unanimously rejected by the town Planning Board, and later by the Board of Appeals, which concluded that the Coles met three of the four requirements for a hardship variance, but that they did not meet the fourth -- that the land in question had no economically beneficial uses without the variance. In a letter to the town, South Paris attorney Dana Hanley said he planned to challenge the Appeals Board's ruling on that fourth condition.

Sheriff's Dept. cruiser totaled

WOODSTOCK--An Oxford County Sheriff's deputy and two juveniles received minor injuries when their vehicles collided Monday. According to Sheriff Skip Herrick, deputy Bruce Korhonen's cruiser was struck at the intersection of Routes 26 and 232 at about midnight. The female juveniles were being pursued by a state trooper on Route 232. They went through the stop sign at the intersection, striking the right front of Korhonen's vehicle. Korhonen was headed north on Rt. 26. Herrick said he believed the 1993 Sheriff's Department car was a total loss.

NOVA addition opposed

RUMFORD--Residents last week overwhelmingly opposed an addition to Mountain Valley High School. The vote in a straw poll was 126-3. The proposed project would put NOVA programs under the same roof with adult education and high school classes. NOVA currently operates out of seven different buildings. The program wants to consolidate and increase the number of course offerings. Residents objected to the estimated $6.6 million price tag. Taxpayers in Byron, Mexico, Roxbury and Rumford would bear about half the expense. Other NOVA towns, including those of SAD44, would pay minimally or not at all because their district's indebtedness kicks in state funding for the project. A formal vote on the issue will take place in NOVA towns in April.

SAD17 gets new superintendent

PARIS--Mark Eastman of Mars Hill was appointed new superintendent for SAD17 Monday. Eastman, 49, is the current Superintendent of the Year in Maine. He will replace Mary Jane McCalmon, who vacated the position in June. Eastman expects to take over the job in December. He is a Portland native.

Towns seek savings on joint projects

ANDOVER/NEWRY--A joint municipal board is working to find savings and efficient activities for the residents of several towns, including Andover and Newry. The towns may cooperate on joint bids on fuel and gas, joint purchase of repair parts, computers and sand, swapping services and sharing equipment, joint recreational offerings. Information is also being gathered from the northeastern states on joint efforts in six general areas. Those include youth at risk, tax-based revenue, economic businesses development, growth management, and infrastructure financing.

Car thefts down

The theft of automobiles in the U.S. has declined for three consecutive years. Car thefts nationwide dipped 8 percent in 1992; 9 percent in 1993; and 2 percent in 1994. Police say that a significant part of the decline can be directly attributed to a steady increase in car owner awareness about how thieves work and the security systems that may foil them.

Hunting, fishing license sales down

AUGUSTA--The overall sale of hunting and fishing licenses sold in 1994 decreased compared with the previous year, according to the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. The sale of resident hunting licenses was down by 1.7 percent, while the sale of resident fishing licenses was down 5.5 percent to the lowest level since 1987. Part of the decline is being attributed to a general increase in license fees. Most Hunting and fishing licenses increased by $2 in 1994, and combination licenses increased by $4. Additional increases of $1 for hunting and fishing licenses and $2 for combination licenses will occur in 1995 and 1996.

Game farm bears to get new home

GRAY--The black bears at the Game Farm and Visitors Center in Gray will soon be moving into a new home. Construction will begin October 1 on a $72,000 enclosure. The new exhibit is approximately 10,000 square feet in area, will have natural grassy areas, boulders, and logs for exercise and roaming free. It will have a den for wintering and a swimming area where the bears can completely submerge on hot summer days. The current enclosures have cement floors, chain-link fence, and bare surroundings. Much of the money to fund the new exhibit has been raised over the past two years by the Friends of the Game Farm organization.

Moose hunters get 1,242

GREENVILLE--A preliminary tally Sunday showed 1,242 moose killed by Maine's 1,400 permit holders. Jon Gulliver of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, said an unofficial tally was expected Tuesday. He said it appears moose hunters have achieved the 90 percent success rate common since the hunt was resumed in the early 1980s.

SKI wants to limit itself to East

SHERBURN, Vt.--The largest ski resort company in the East will sell its California resort by the end of October. SKI Ltd. will sell Bear Mountain ski area outside Los Angeles to Fibreboard Corp. for approximately $20 million. A spokesman for SKI Ltd. said the company is making the move because it wants to consolidate its holdings on the East Coast. Proceeds from the sale will help SKI Ltd. pursue other acquisitions in and outside of the ski industry, according to CEO Preston Leete Smith. SKI Ltd. currently owns Killington, Mount Snow, Haystack and Waterville Valley ski resorts, and owns a majority interest in Sugarloaf/USA.

Historic grants offered

AUGUSTA--The Maine Historic Preservation Commission anticipates awarding federal grants in 1996 for historic preservation surveys, planning and public education projects statewide. Eligible projects will focus on prehistoric archaeological, historic archaeological, and architectural resources generally in areas of the state vulnerable to coastal erosion or development pressures. In 1995, $44,665 in federal grants were awarded. Grants will be awarded to agencies or institutions, and projects must be directed by persons with professional credentials as defined by the Department of the Interior. For more information, contact the Maine Historic Preservation Commission in Augusta.

Nicotine gum sale recommended

ROCKVILLE, Md.--A panel of scientists has recommended that nicotine-laced gum be sold over the counter to people who want to quit smoking. The recommendation will go to the Food and Drug Administration for final action. The gum is now sold by prescription. But the company marketing it will purposely sell the gum at a high enough price to discourage impulse buying. The price for a full 12-week treatment would be about the same as the cost of a pack of cigarettes a day for that time period.

At 5:15 p.m. a Chandler Hill resident brought a tan, hard-sided suitcase to the police department. He had found it on the corner of Route 26 and the Chandler Hill Road. The suitcase had USAir stickers on it. Police planned to try to locate the owner through USAir in Portland.

Oct. 5

At 6 p.m. a caller contacted the Oxford County Sheriff's office regarding "kids" hanging around the old Ethel Bisbee School, apparently smoking. Police planned further patrols of the area.

then voted to go to a district budget meeting on Sept. 16. At that meeting, 600-plus voters approved an $11.3 million budget -- $100,000 higher than the one defeated in August. The vote was 406-226.

Monroe wasn't happy with the School Board's reasoning for going to the open meeting.

"They said there wasn't a clear message from the referendum. That was a guise to get to a district meeting -- they knew the budget was too high," she said.

She said she received numerous phone calls prior to the Sept. 16 meeting from voters who said they couldn't attend because of work, vacations, or child care needs.

"They were upset they couldn't vote," she said.

She said there was no attempt to petition for a reconsideration vote -- the same problems would have prevented people from coming to a second meeting.

Voters understand results

Monroe doesn't accept the argument that referendum voters aren't as well-informed as those at a district meeting. She said, "There are all kinds of methods of getting information out. You can have a hearing, and have a straw poll," she said.

But she also said people don't need to attend a hearing if they understand the figures in the school budget report.

Regardless of whether people take advantage of the information offered, Monroe still stands by the referendum method.

"It's a poor argument to take away a person's right to vote because they're ill informed. People may not understand the detail, but they understand the results. They see their children or grandchildren having problems in school," she said.

She said her children got a good education at a private school at a lower per-pupil cost than that of public schools.

SAD15 chairman: input needed

Rose Fitch, chairman of the SAD15 School Board, agrees that referendum mean more voter participation. Beyond that, her views differ widely from Monroe's.

Fitch said her board has tried to get citizen input through hearings and meetings. But, she said, the efforts have not been very successful.

"The drawback is that the budget process starts in the winter, and no one comes to those meetings, when they need to. The public has to realize their role now comes much earlier with a referendum. And at our first hearing in May, there were four people," she said.

She said the 25 to 30 people at an August hearing was relatively high. Fitch said people can't get all the information they need from a district report.

"Before I was on the board, I used to look at the numbers and say, 'What is that for?' or 'Why is that so high?' You could ask that at the district meeting. If someone wants to know why the cost of heating oil is higher, the answer might be, 'We finished with an empty tank and had to refill one more time.' It's like a Town Meeting -- once you hear the explanation, it makes sense," she said.

Fitch also questioned whether voters understand the results of public education. She said unlike private schools, public schools must pay for special education. They also cannot expel problem students as easily as a private institution, she said.

Budget too high, or too low?

Fitch said it was difficult for the board to know how to adjust the budget last year after two of the "no" referendum votes. One resulted in a difference of 26 votes out of 2,000 cast, while the other ended in a dead tie.

She said the district meeting this year was needed because the meaning of the "no" August referendum vote was also unclear.

"Some of us had parents call and say the budget was too low. Others were upset with the budget deficit," she said.

Fitch was referring to a $262,000 budget shortfall discovered shortly after new Supt. Judith Lucarelli took over early in the summer.

Fitch said parents were well-organized for the district meeting. But she said some of them were also unable to attend.

She sees the move toward referendum-style voting as a disturbing trend.

"The more we remove ourselves from direct involvement in the budget, the easier it is to be cynical. We're moving away from the true democracy of sitting down together and working things out. Who knows -- eventually we may all stay home and vote by e-mail," she said.

"Different forms of democracy"

SAD15 Supt. Judith Lucarelli has mixed feelings about the referendum process.

"I don't think there will ever be a persuasive argument for either the district meeting or referendum. They're just different forms of democracy," she said.

Lucarelli said a series of referendum votes keeps a school system from focusing on education.

But she acknowledged the school district needs to do a better job of communicating.

"We have acted in the past as if we thought we could act independently of the community. Eighty percent of the people don't have a kid in school -- we have to reach out to them, too," she said.

Referendum

tors, "Proponents of the referendum see this process as an easier way to defeat a school budget. I see the greatest disadvantage in the referendum process to be that, if defeated, the board has no clear idea of exactly what it is the citizens want. There is only a yes or no to each question. The amount of money the citizens want to add or cut from the budget cannot be determined from the vote.

"Several districts in Maine, following the defeat of a budget, have had to return to the citizens several times before getting a budget passed. District budget meetings can be long and tiring, but when completed, you have a budget. It has been the citizens that came out to debate their beliefs that have reached that budget decision.

"I believe that the power given at referendum is without provision for responsibility."

Woodstock director Margaret Hand agreed. She said going to a referendum vote is contradictory to a New England tradition -- the town meeting.

"This is one of the last places in the country you can still go out to Town Meeting. At Town Meeting, maybe you can persuade people, or maybe you can't. This is taking that away. Every town that votes for the referendum should also vote to do away with their Town Meeting," she said.

Bethel director John Brown wondered how informed a vote by referendum would be. He said that in a district meeting there is at least some exchange of information before the vote.

"But you can't require them to go to a hearing (prior to a referendum vote)," he said.

Regarding dialogue at a district meeting, Brown said there was little productive discussion at the July 31 budget meeting.

"I heard dialogue at the district meeting to cut administrators, but the board didn't adhere to that," he said. "If we need dialogue, we can have it at a hearing. The referendum doesn't cut dialogue -- we just have to be more proactive. The board can call an informational meeting at any time and ask citizens what they think should be put into the budget."

He acknowledges Hand's Town Meeting argument. But he said a referendum vote just isn't practical with the number of warrant articles for a municipality.

Brown also said the possible effect of a referendum-style vote on the outcome of future budgets doesn't play a role in his support of the proposed change.

"It's an issue of process for me. I had 30 calls before the last budget meeting from people who wanted to vote absentee. I feel strongly about peoples' right to vote. The district meeting disenfranchises the elderly because of the hour. We have to make it as easy as possible for them. With the referendum, they would have 10 hours in which to vote," he said.

Barth's view

Rep. Al Barth is a member of the legislature's Education Committee. He said if enough people want to go to the referendum vote, he supports it.

"It will get more people voting. The best part of it is if SAD44 wants a budget, they'll have to sell people on it," he said. "They may have to say, 'These are the conditions that are different in schools today -- they're not the same as they were in earlier days, when we were in school.'"

Barth also advocated separate budget hearings for each district town if a referendum-type vote is approved. He also favored sending budget information to homes and having more in newspapers.

He said taxpayers will be willing to spend money on education if they feel it's used efficiently and productively.

"People are not anti-school," he said.

place in today's Navy and America's heart.

"I am very proud to be serving aboard the oldest commissioned warship," he said.

The fireman apprentice is one of 55 crewmembers who give tours to the hundreds of thousands of visitors the ship attracts each year.

"One of my most exciting experiences, since I've been in the Navy, is hearing the applause of a four group after a good tour," he said.

Built in Boston in 1797 to help defend the young American nation, USS Constitution is nearly as old as the document for which she is named. The frigate holds the distinction of being the oldest commissioned warship afloat in the world today.

Roberts said he enjoys serving as a positive role model on board the ship. "We try to present a positive image of the Navy to the general public," said Roberts. "For some people, the impression they get here will be the only one they have of the whole Navy."

The Constitution was one of the first six ships built in establishing the United States Navy. Never defeated in battle, she destroyed or captured 42 enemy ships. The ship earned the nickname "Old Ironsides" because the wood used to build her was so strong cannon balls from enemy ships seemed to bounce off her sides without inflicting damage. Most of the wood below the waterline today is original, dating back to 1787.

The ship was retired from active service in 1882, but opened to the public in 1905, becoming a national monument. It was recommissioned in 1931.

With the Constitution's bicentennial less than two years away, the ship is undergoing renovations to prepare it for the celebration.

According to Roberts, the $12 million project should be completed next March.

The renovations include replacing masts, rigging, deck planks and structural timbers.

Roberts' assignment to Old Ironsides will last 18 months.

He is married to the former Christina McClean. They have two sons, Charles, 3, and Shawn, 2. Roberts is a 1992 graduate of Mountain Valley High School in Rumford.

(JO2 Lisa M. Novak is a Navy photojournalist assigned to the Navy Public Affairs Center in Norfolk, Va.)

Rotary Club notes:

The horse watering trough was rededicated Tuesday at its new location on the Bethel Common.

Town officials commended the Bethel Rotary Club for their efforts in restoring this landmark which was located at the intersection of Main and Railroad streets for approximately 100 years (1890-1990). Over the years the trough had fallen victim to trucks, autos and snowplows.

To protect it, more than one-half ton of concrete and steel had been used to encase it. The encasement was removed with considerable difficulty only to find that the trough had been broken in several places.

Restoration was done by Richard Duka of Hanover Iron Works during the winter of 1994-1995. A steel ball at the top replaces a glass globe on the original trough. The trough weighs about 1,500 pounds.

Concrete pedestal work was done by Kevin McMahon. A truck with loader was needed to off-load the trough on its new pedestal. This service was donated by D.A. Wilson & Sons.

Dr. Stanley Howe of the Bethel Historical Society served as consultant to the project. The project was financed in total by the Rotary Club of Bethel.

Rotary Club members expressed delight in being able to assist in this worthy endeavor and are constantly looking for ideas and thoughts on other community projects that need support, and solicit public input.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Those young men and women whom the Post and Unit sponsored last June to attend the Girls State program at Huxton College and Boys State at the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine will be special guests at the next meeting on Oct. 19.

There will be a dinner at 6 p.m. followed by the program, at which time the participants will report on their impressions and experiences during that eventful week.

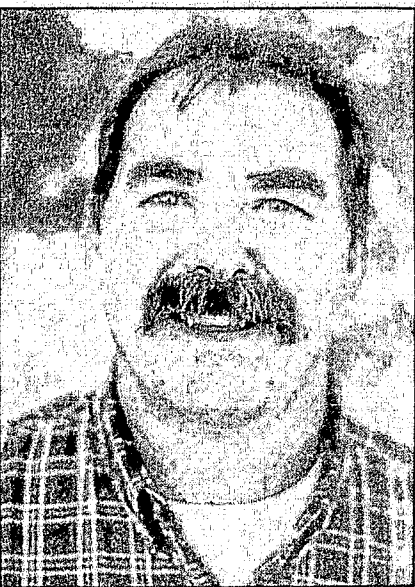

Also expected to attend will be Shirley Williams of Dryden, director of Girls State, and Ruth Lucius, the assistant director for many years. Mrs. Lucius is also a Past Department President of Maine and a Past National Vice President for the Eastern Division.

At the meeting held on Oct. 5 plans were finalized for the dinner and dance on Oct. 10 at which time the music will be furnished by the Parisians. The meal will be a boiled dinner with corned beef. Another dinner on Oct. 24 will be catered for the Oxford County Division of the Maine State Employees Association.

President Martha Stowell reported on the National Leadership Workshop which she attended at Westborough, Mass. on the weekend of Sept. 15-17. Evanna Davis and Olive Risko also attended.

1st Vice President Leah Deegan and secretary Olive Risko also attended the Fall Conference at Milbrook on the weekend of Sept. 29 through Oct. 1 and will report on this further at a future meeting. The Unit voted to request to host the National President when she visits Maine in April or early May.

Soldier of the Year of the 1st Battalion 115th Infantry Division of the Maryland National Guard. He is now eligible for the Brigade Soldier of the Year Award.

Sympathy is extended to the Poor and Fisher families for the death of John "Jack" Poor. Mr. Poor, a Paramus, N.J., resident, attended Andover High School in 1932.

Get well wishes to former resident Armand Michaud, now of Skowhegan, who recently underwent major heart surgery at EMMC in Bangor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Swain have returned from a trip to Albuquerque, N.M., where they attended the fourth 78th Troop Carrier Squadron reunion. One hundred twenty attended from all over the United States. The 1996 reunion is planned to be held in the East.

New residents on Farmers Hill are James and Suzanne Goodrich and family, formerly of Kennebunkport. Area "1918 Club" members held a luncheon in Rumford on Oct. 5. Other members from Kennebunkport, Brunswick, Westbrook, South Portland, Auburn, Lewiston, and Kennebec joined the Rumford, Maine, Andover, West Bethel, and East Andover members. All other officers, including president Violet Savari and vice president William Smith attended. The Maine Chapter No. 10 of the 1918 Club is an international organization for any birth in 1918. The Bethel Chapter will meet at Valley's in Portland on Nov. 18. The state has 19 chapters and Mike Godin of Lewiston celebrated the birth of a son, Ryan Michael Ray, on Sept. 22 at the Mid Coast Hospital in Bath. Ryan weighed in at 9 pounds, 4 ounces, and was 21 1/2 inches long. Ryan joins older sister Jordan Megan who is three. Maternal grandparents are Learned and Carol Littlehale. Maternal great-grandparents are Ray and Natalie Littlehale, and John and Jeannette Derouche of Mexico. Paternal grandparents are Richard and Connie Godin of Lewiston.

Dick and Polly Johnston, who have been visiting since arriving in Maine in the middle of August, began their vacation with the Littlehale Reunion on Aug. 20. They toured up the coast to see old friends Jim and Joanne Smith of Milbridge, having lobster three to four times along the way. They spent a few days with Polly's cousins, Bob and Christine Pfeiffer of Falmouth and visited with a few high school classmates in Cape Elizabeth. They went to Wilson's Mills twice visiting with friends Norman and Muriel Littlehale and had a wonderful time. Polly and Dick camped in Roger and Dottie Mills' yard (was great being neighbors) and visited around Andover and Rumford from there. They were guests of Virginia and Gordon Justard at their camp on Moosehead Lake for a few days. They really enjoyed the Historical Society and "Homestead" Open Houses. The Church retreat and ringing of the bells was a spiritual experience they will always treasure. Polly enjoyed decorating a Birthday Supper table again. It was also great seeing her cousins Mary Agnes, Walter, Louise, Powell, and Martha. Norman, Dick and Polly also attended a reunion of Square Dancers at Dot Wings in Rumford. Invited were Terry and Sheila Campbell, Dawn and Dennis McCourt, John and Hattie Freeman, Dottie and Roger Mills, Norma and Freeman Farrington, Oscar and Laura LePage, Dan and Mandy Parsons, Beth and Donna Towle, Shirley and Bob Dolloff, and Martin and Ethelene Thurston -- what a great time seeing old friends. The Johnstons started their way back to Washington state on Sunday, the 8th. They plan on visiting with Dick's niece, Candy Johnston, and his aunt, Marguerite Brown in Massachusetts, and friends Rod and Edwina Rodrigues in Coventry, Ga.

The Ken Hoyts have been to New York again. We had to go to Grandparents' Day at Marybeth Hoover's school. Even great-grandma Beatrice Farnum went, and we all had a great day.

The Bryant Pond Baptist Church will start a Children's Church on Sunday, Oct. 15, for ages K thru fourth grade.

The West Paris Baptist Church has invited all junior and senior high students to join them each Sunday from 4 to 5:30 for a Word of Life Club.

Each Tuesday at 4 p.m. is Bryant Pond Hour on Channel TV. Curator Larry Billings has given the Historical Society an etiquette book and a piece of silver. Woodstock is a fine community with unique people, places, and events in its history. The society creates interest in Maine and New England's heritage. We all can learn about the region. The October meeting of the society will feature a program by Merle Glines on a bicycle trip from coast to coast. Curator Billings has given a fine collection of items on royalty to the society.

Dinner guests of the Ken Hoyts on Sunday were JoAnn, David, Ray and Shawn Crockett, Beatrice Farnum, James, Joseph and Maggie Hoyt and Lauretta and Kelly Sanborn. Maggie and Joseph Hoyt spent the weekend with their father, James Hoyt.

Ann Westleigh donated a Meserve's Market sign to the Historical Society. Society members watched a table at the Grange sale recently. Much thanks.

There will be an Open House at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway on Sunday, Oct. 15, 2 to 4 p.m., for Harris' 90th birthday. No gifts please.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway lately have been Harriett and Lawrence Estes, Phyllis and Vance Jordan and Debbie Millett. Edith Hathaway has visited Olive Elliot a few times lately at Clover Manor.

Franklin Grange met on Monday, Oct. 2, for scrambled officers night. I forgot to call for the news of what went on but next meeting will be Oct. 17. Come in costume for a Halloween party.

On Oct. 1, Mary Bean, Arthur Hertell, Brenda Barnhill and Victor Coolidge went to Fryburg Fair.

October came tripping over the hills and through the valleys. The air now has a tang of fall and the nights are frosty. A little warmth is welcome to fend off the chill that tries its best to creep into the house, as the sun lowers.

The stars glitter with the enchantment made by the radiance of fall. They make me feel transient, frail and humble, as I look.

In October, Maine erupts in an explosion of color, which one should see to believe. This lavish display of foliage occurs only in the north temperate zone, where the mixed deciduous forests meet the evergreen belt across North America. October is what all other seasons are for. Eleven months of toil, then it launches a four-week production of glory, leaves of green turn to red and yellow. Autumn glowing glow yet tinged with a bit of sadness. Why is that so? I can only wonder.

"Season of mist and mellow fruitfulness/Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun." (John Keats)

Dale and Marcia Mills of North Haven came to visit me last Sunday. Bertha Cole and sister Florence of South Paris and Oxford visited one day.

Sunday afternoon I made another trip to the "top of the world." There was a difference of color over the ranges.

There is a new baby girl in town, Felicia Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Curtis. She was born Oct. 3, 1995.

Milton and Eleanor Inman were gone recently on a fishing trip with friends. They brought me a lovely trout which I enjoyed.

Gerald Stevens, who has been visiting his mother, came to visit me. We talked of our school days here in town. He lives in Kentucky.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met at Freda's residence on Monday, Oct. 2, at 12:30 p.m. President Sylvia Wight opened the meeting and Gil Seelye, vice president, had a reading about "Faith" and "My Friend Forever." Secretary-treasurer Freda read the notes of the last meeting and brought the finances up to date. Church bills were paid. A thank-you note from Rena Powers, for the sunshine basket, was read. The circle is still planning on having a food sale or maybe a quilt for sale to raise money for the church's expenses. Next meeting will be at Sylvia Wight's on Nov. 6 at 12:30 p.m. Coffee and pie were enjoyed with a lot of lively conversation.

North Newry

Services were held at the Newry Community Church on Sunday, Oct. 1, 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the Pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "So Much For So Little," from Psalm 103, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul, and Forget Not all His Benefits."

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Jane Young, and Doris Parent, all members of the "Newry Bowling Gang," were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the singles and triples. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on both the singles and triples. Karlene and Betsy each had two spares; Gil, Louise and Jane each had one spare and Doris had one strike and one spare.

I called my sister, Dotte Criser, this week to wish her a Happy Birthday. Dotte was busy watching five young children, so we didn't talk long.

The leaves have been so beautiful this year, but the rain today will make a lot of them come off. We need the rain so I guess it's all for the good.

Jessie Hart is going to the Homecoming Dance at Oxford Hills High School this weekend. She bought a new dress and is excited about going. Jessie is a freshman at Oxford Hills this year.

I watched the O.J. verdict as I suspect everyone who reads this column also did.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that the Society links past, present and future. Everything becomes history eventually as time passes. Let us hope our individual contributions to events will be positive and constructive. You can help the Society with your encouragement and support. Mr. Billings has given an etiquette book and a piece of silver to the museum.

Claribel Poland called and said she has a very cute and playful black kitten she'd like to give to a nice home. She thought I might want it but I have two very spoiled cats already.

Couples celebrating wedding anniversaries this October are: Jim and Chris Miclon, Bruce and Donna Danforth, Wayne and Pat Lawrence. Congratulations to you all.

Emma Billings joined Rob and Norma for supper on Wednesday and enjoyed a boiled dinner prepared by Norma.

On Sunday, Michelle McInnis prepared dinner for Rob and Lloyd Davis and Kara Jacques. Rob especially enjoyed the biscuits.

Norma Davis enjoyed a nice phone visit with Betty Emmerson. June Roy paid a visit to Emma Billings on Sunday. Also, a past visitor was Patty Thurlow.

Mac Billings made a trip to Jackman on Wednesday and reported seeing some moose.

Tony and Billy Silver and Randy Winslow went duck hunting on Monday. They went down the Androscoggin and reported the river was very low.

This week has been busy for the Silvers, with trips to Farmington and Conway, N.H., for errands.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers, Work is progressing on the new fire station addition. The cement foundation and floor have been done. Saturday morning, Sept. 30, I got up from the breakfast table and looked out the kitchen sink window and saw a huge bull moose walking by and up by the clothesline and well into the woods. He didn't wait for me to go say "hi" to him. I wonder if anyone else in town saw him. That same day we went up to camp at Wilson's Mills and didn't see any animals at all. We did hear the coyotes howling in the distance, though.

Albert and Eleanor Nelson were among the many people attending the Fryeburg Fair on Tuesday, Oct. 3, Senior Citizens' Day. How pretty the trees are right now. I also visited the Canal Bridge One-Room Schoolhouse where school was in progress and granddaughter Molly was as a student of the olden days. They were using turkey feathers dipped in a homemade ink to write with. Molly also won second prize in the Cookie Contest elsewhere at the Fair. It seemed to be Molly's lucky day.

Remember people -- the public Harvest Supper will be held on Thursday, Oct. 12, 5 to 6:30 p.m., at the East Stoneham Congregational Church.

Saturday, Oct. 14, all Stoneham Republicans are requested to meet at 2 p.m. at the Town Office (Fire Station building).

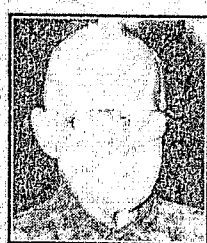

Also on Oct. 14 all former A.C.

Lawrence employees are invited to a banquet and dancing at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills. Social hour will be 6 to 7 p.m. and supper at 7 p.m. This has been organized by Bill Damon, P.O. Box 161, Norway, ME 04268.

This past weekend Albert Nelson, Jr., Troy, Eric and friend Chris went to camp at Wilson's Mills to do some bird hunting, and they had good luck. It takes skill, too, to catch those birds. Partridge tastes just like chicken.

No more news today as I have been weeding out 10 days of mail and newspapers, etc. Please, everyone, drive carefully. There are too many accidents out there.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates

Howdy, folks. Well this third day of October is starting off just as clear and beautiful as the past several days have been. It's a bit warmer this morning and a great morning to start out and view the beautiful foliage out there. This is a perfect beginning for Fryeburg Fair.

Sister Laura Hutchins called on us Monday afternoon. We always enjoy her visit. That evening we visited Richard and Barbara Felt in Bryant Pond.

Wednesday morning, I tried to start my old Volkswagen pickup and it refused to start. This is very unusual and I decided that moisture had seeped in where it didn't belong, so I pushed the old truck around to face the sun and opened the hood. Later in the day I tried starting it, and it started just as if there had been nothing wrong. It is seldom used and moisture does bother at times.

Peggy was having some problems with the car that she bought at Allen Motor Sales, so she took it back Thursday morning to have work done on it. They said they'd need to have it all day, so I went along to bring her home. After we got home, we worked in the garden for a while. Peggy picked tomatoes and cut broccoli shoots and I picked over the pole string beans for the last time. We gave some of the broccoli shoots to the neighbors, as there were more than we wanted. The green tomatoes were put into large trays and slid under my bed.

That evening, we went to Allen Motors for Peggy's car. Mary Lovejoy called later that evening to get the items Peggy had ready to put into the ladies' exhibit at the fair.

Callers at the Lovejoy home this week have been Neil Mills from West Paris and Allan Lovejoy from Oxford.

We received word that the West Paris ladies won fifth place with their exhibit at Fryeburg Fair. We don't know the decision on the men's exhibit as yet.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange on Oct. 14 with more of that good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

The West Paris ladies are once again planning for their fall Craft, Food, and White Elephant Sale at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This sale includes a cookie walk, where you can buy a can of cookies, your choice, for just $1 per can. Tables are available to rent for $3 each, and to reserve a table call Peggy Blake at 674-3872.

There will also be a table of books for sale, miscellaneous subjects, that the Grange had in their library.

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Biggers, and Mrs. Clements have a special request!

We are one of the committees that has evolved from the School Improvement Team's work on our early release days. We are excited about, and support, all the fund-raising activities that our parent volunteers are doing. We also still want and need volunteers school wide. We would like other friends and relatives from the community to join us, on our committee, to help coordinate the many needs, both in and outside the classroom. Please contact any one of us for further information. Thank you, thank you!

We are all very pleased with the recent decision of the school board to split our 32 fourth-graders into two classes. Everyone involved is moving quickly to get this accomplished.

Work being done in classrooms this week includes:

The kindergarten has begun their study of the letter A. They are working on reading readiness skills, learning on poems, songs and rhymes. By the time this is published they will be working on colors and shapes. Red is the color of the week. They have a year kindergarten wear.

Last week was a very busy week for the kindergarten. They learned about the letter A, and they learned about the colors and shapes. They also learned about the letter A, and they learned about the colors and shapes. They also learned about the letter A, and they learned about the colors and shapes.

the best tasting apple crisp ever! Many thanks to their helpers, Mrs. DiConzo and Mrs. Westleigh, who helped make the day a huge success.

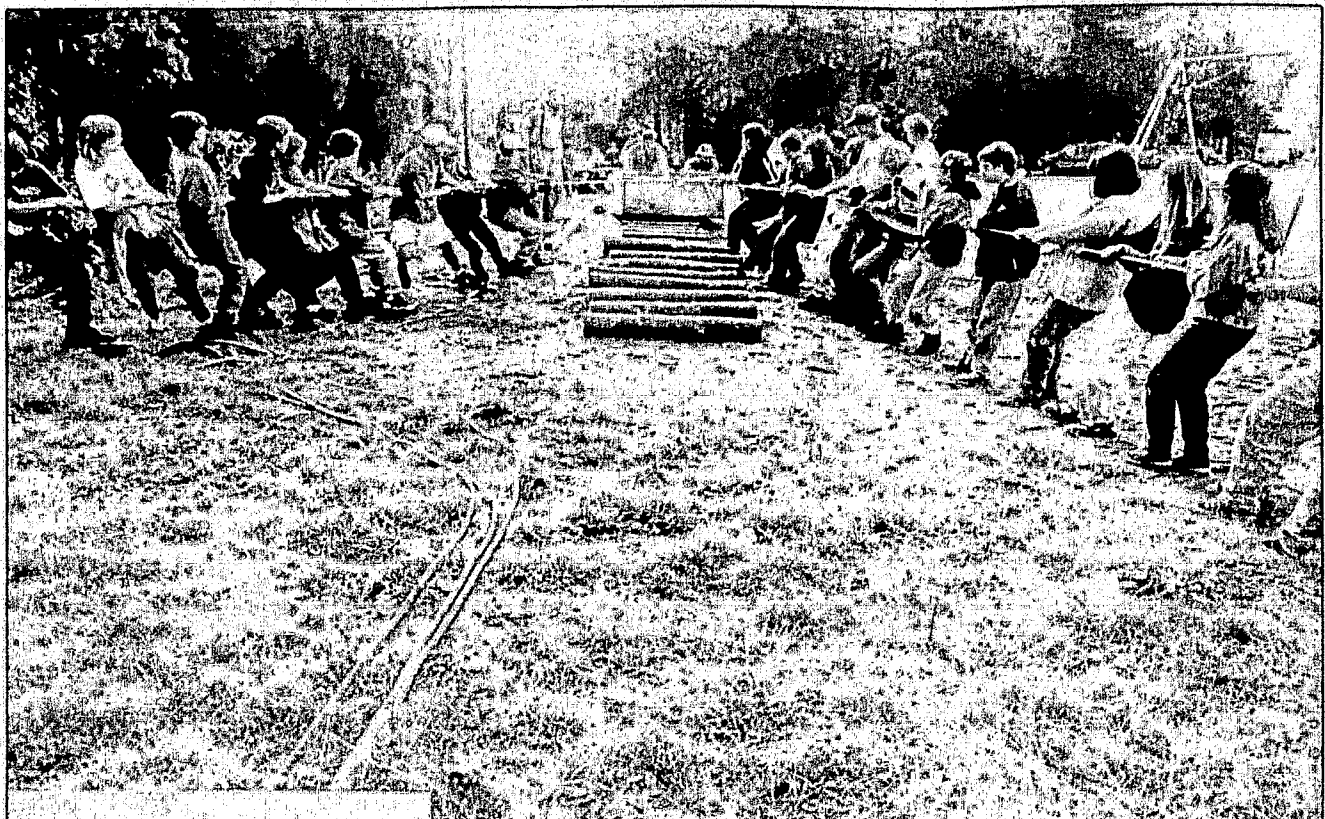

The second-grade star of the week is Melissa Gully. Her new friends say Melissa is a good friend, singer, speaker, artist, and that she is a fast runner. Her class is reading lots of Berenstain Bear books this month, as Stan and Jan Berenstain are the authors of the month for grade two.

The third-graders are writing pen pal letters to Mrs. Kennison's class at the Rowe School. They will get to meet each other later on this month with a trip to Whispering Pines mine, as they begin their science unit on rocks and minerals.

The fourth-graders are into their Maine studies unit. They are learning about symbols of Maine. Mr. Litchfield is reading "The Sign of the Beaver," which is historical fiction written during the time that Maine was part of Massachusetts. In reading they are finishing up their unit on fantasy by all reading a theme book called "Flat Stanley."

My fifth-graders are beginning a unit in social studies on early explorers of our country. The poem this week is about Columbus. The book report due this past week was "Saving the Peregrine Falcon." Each student had to write up to 10 questions and their answers over the book. These questions will be shared with the rest of the class. In science our chameleons are providing lots of learning and lots of fun.

Mr. Koch is again challenging parents to check up on their children's learning by asking questions over what they are learning. Last week's questions were: How did humans become civilized? What are the ancient Greeks known for? What are the ancient Greeks known for? What are the ancient Greeks known for?

French Fiddlers at Newry Grange

The Mahosue Arts Council with the support of the Maine Arts Commission will present the Maine French Fiddlers on Saturday, Oct. 14, at the Newry Grange Hall. The evening's activities will begin with a potluck supper at 5:30 p.m., followed by a dance, a "soiree" in the French-American tradition, at 7 p.m. All area residents are welcomed. Ticket prices for the dance are $3 for adults and $1 for children. Tickets are available at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel, the Newry Town Office or by calling 824-3575.

The Maine French Fiddlers' sound is much bigger than an eight-piece band. The band's style is warm and exciting, like taking a Maine French house party on the road.

The Maine French Fiddlers is a group of friends and family who have been playing music for years. The group includes four fiddlers who have mastered the old-time art of French-Canadian fiddling native to the provinces of New Brunswick and Quebec. Fiddle members of the group include Lucien Mathieu, his nephew Don Roy, Jerry Robichaud, and Erica Brown. They are joined by Stu McConnell on accordion, Cindy Roy, Don's wife, on piano, Louis Mathieu, Lucien's son, on guitar and Jay Young on bass.

The fiddlers repertoire draws heavily upon the traditions of Irish and Scottish music. Some of their favored tunes are nearly 300 years old and include waltzes, jigs and reels.

Since the fiddlers' initial outing as a group in 1987 at the New Year's Celebration in Portland, numerous engagements have followed. Highlights of their recent work include the National Folk Festival (1988), the acclaimed Folk Masters Series at Carnegie Hall (1990), two appearances on Garrison Keillor's American Radio Theater (1992), Lincoln Center's Out of Doors Festival (1992), and the Folk Masters Series at Wolf Trap Farm, Vienna, Va. (1993). They were also featured in the successful French Connections Tour in 1993.

Murdered 3 Years Ago
October 9, 1992
There is a bridge of memories from here to heaven above, that keeps you close to us it's called a bridge of love. As time goes by without you and the days turn into years, they hold a million memories and a thousand silent tears. To us you were very special what more is there to say, except to wish with all our hearts that you were here today. Loved, remembered and sadly missed Mom, Nana, and family
